gayWdc.com Launches Its Web Site for Online Gay Resources in the Metropolitan Washington Region

WASHINGTON, DC – October 7, 2000 – gayWdc.com launches its new web site, <<http://www.gayWdc.com>>, which offers the most complete online resource guide in the Washington DC area, serving the Bisexual, Gay, Lesbian and Transgendered Communities. In addition, gayWdc.com is providing and developing other services to help the community, including classified listings; personal ads; information about what's happening in DC; shopping links that help support DC area gay service-oriented charities and nonprofits; useful travel information; and an interactive chat system.

gayWdc.com was envisioned and is being developed with the primary objective of better serving the needs of the metropolitan Washington region's gay community and those interested in that community's resources, programs and activities. As step one in achieving that goal, the new website offers a clearinghouse of information for the community's resources – and, more importantly, gayWdc.com provides that information in an interactive, online, searchable and shareable format.

In the upcoming months, gayWdc.com will be seeking opportunities to partner with many of the area's gay resources to better serve the community, will continue developing and enhancing the web site to make information easily accessible to all interested persons, and will seek feedback from its users on other areas for development to further extend its network of information to continue reaching out to all members of the area's Bisexual, Gay, Lesbian and Transgendered Communities.

gayWdc.com is based in the Washington DC metropolitan area. For additional information on gayWdc.com or the services that they offer visit their Web site at <http://www.gayWdc.com>.
